

MARSHALL UNIVERSITY MASTER OF ARTS IN LATIN

- for teachers already teaching Latin,
- for teachers who want to add Latin as a teaching field,
- for anyone desiring to pursue a PhD in Classics,
- for anyone desiring in-depth Study of Latin literature.

THE MARSHALL UNIVERSITY MASTER OF ARTS IN LATIN offers the opportunity for graduate study in Latin for teachers who want to enhance their existing certification in Latin for advanced salary classification, for teachers who do not presently possess a Latin undergraduate degree but want to be able to teach Latin at the secondary level, and for any person of any age who wishes to complete graduate study in Latin literature either as a terminal degree or as a step toward a PhD. Our faculty is dedicated to providing graduate study in Latin not only to those teachers and students in adjoining counties in West Virginia, Kentucky and Ohio, but also to those who live further away through the various distance learning technologies Marshall provides. Teachers or students with an undergraduate degree in any field may apply provided that they have had six semesters of Latin, two of which must be at the 300 level or above.

The degree consists of twenty-one hours of advanced Latin on the 500- and 600-levels, of which LAT 640 and 660 are required, six hours of related courses taught in English of which CL 620 is required, and six thesis hours.

COURSES OFFERED THAT FULFILL THE ADVANCED LATIN REQUIREMENT:

LAT 503: Roman Comedy
LAT 504: Roman Elegy: Propertius and Tibullus
LAT 505: Readings in Vergil
LAT 506: Horace: Odes and Epodes
LAT 507: Livy's History of Rome
LAT 509: Roman Satire: Horace, Martial and Juvenal
LAT 510: Tacitus
LAT 580-583: Special Topics in Latin Literature
LAST 585-588: Independent Study
LAT 680-683: Special Topics in Latin Literature
LAT 685-688: Independent Study

Other required courses:

LAT 640: Advanced Latin Prose Composition
LAT 660-665: Special Author in Latin Literature
CL 620: Theoretical Approaches to Latin Literature
LAT 681: Thesis Hours

For further information on the department and its programs, please visit our website at: <http://www.marshall.edu/classical-studies/LatinMA.htm>. For information on application procedures and to download an application form, please visit the graduate website at: http://www.marshall.edu/mugc/grad_adm.html