Farewell Song.

Now to thee, O, Alma Mater,
We would breathe a farewell song.
Thou hast been a noble mother,
From thy care we go forth strong.
Strong for the duties and turmoils of life;
Strong in the battle for God and the right;
Strong to resist when vain pleasures are rife.
Knowing that only in knowledge is might.

CHORUS:

Thro' our pleasure comes not wisdom,
But thro' exercise of power.
'Tis a truth which nature teaches,
That the fruit must cost the flower.

Teachers, now to you we tender
Our sincerest gratitude,
For your earnest toil and labor,
And the truths in us imbued;
Patiently ever our minds you have trained,
Mildly correcting our errors in thought;
Pointing the way to where truth may be found,
Having us practice the knowledge you taught.

Classmates, long we've been together,
Friendship is a sacred tie,
Sadly shall we bid each other
What may be a long good-bye;
When we have parted and time intervenes,
Sti'l in the mem'ry shall visions arise,
Sweetly reverting to days that we spent,
Gaining the knowledge we ever will prize.
