Recessional - Ceremonial Marches

Alma Mater

*Marshall Gracious Alma Mater,
We thy name revere:
May each noble son and daughter
Cherish thine honor dear.
May thy lamp be ever bright
Guiding us to truth and light;
As a beacon o'er dark water
This is for thee our prayer.*

*May the years be kind to Marshall;
May she grow in fame;
May her children fail her never
True to her beacon flame.
May her spirit brave and strong
Honor right and conquer wrong;
This the burden of our song
Ever her truth proclaim.*

The audience is requested to be seated following the Benediction and remain seated until the class has recessed.

Brigadier General Charles E. Yeager, USAF Retired

Brig. Gen. Charles E. "Chuck" Yeager became the first man to fly faster than the speed of sound on Oct. 14, 1947. His historic flight in the Bell X-1 rocket aircraft took place at Muroc Dry Lake Air Field (now Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.). During his nine-year assignment as the nation's leading test pilot, he also became the first man to fly more than twice the speed of sound; this on Dec. 12, 1953, in the Bell X-1A. Gen. Yeager holds 27 additional flying records, more than any other pilot.

During his career, General Yeager has flown 183 types of aircraft and logged more than 11,000 hours of flight time.

Gen. Yeager was born on Feb. 13, 1923, in Myra, W. Va. He enlisted in the Army Air Corps in September 1941, was accepted for pilot training under the flying sergeant program in July, 1942, and received his pilot wings and appointment as a flight officer in March, 1943 at Luke Field, Ariz.

During World War II, Gen. Yeager distinguished himself in aerial combat over France and Germany by shooting down 13 enemy aircraft -- five on one mission. Among his "kills" was one of Germany's first jet fighters. On March 5, 1944, he was shot down over German-occupied France but escaped capture when elements of the French Maquis helped him reach the Spanish border. He turned himself in to Spanish authorities and was held briefly before making another escape. He eventually made his way back to England via Gibraltar and returned to combat duty.

Following the war, Gen. Yeager returned to the United States to attend the instructor pilot course and train new pilots. In July 1945 he went to Wright Field, Ohio, where he received his first experimental flight test work. His assignment there led to his selection as pilot of the nation's first research rocket aircraft, the Bell X-1, in which he became the first to break the sound barrier.

He returned to Europe in 1954 and became Commander of the 417th Fighter Squadron at the USAF's Hahn Air Base, Germany, and at France's Toul-Rosieres Air Base.

Back in the United States in 1957, he was assigned to the 413th Fighter Wing at George Air Force Base, Calif., and in 1958 became Commander of the 1st Fighter Squadron.

Gen. Yeager was graduated from the Air War College, Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., in June, 1961, and a year later became Commandant of the Aerospace Research Pilot School, where all military astronauts are trained.

In 1966 he assumed command of the 405th Fighter Wing at Clark Air Base, Republic of the Philippines. While Commander of the 405th Fighter Wing he flew 127 missions in South Vietnam. Gen. Yeager assumed command of the 4th Tactical Fighter Wing at Seymour Johnson Air Base, N.C., in 1968 and went with the Wing to Korea during the Pueblo crisis.

He was promoted to the grade of brigadier general in 1969. That year he also became Vice Commander, Seventeenth Air Force, with headquarters at Ramstein Air Base, Germany. In 1971 Gen. Yeager assumed duties as United States Defense Representative to Pakistan. He became Director of the Air Force Inspection and Safety Center at Norton Air Force Base, Calif., in 1973 and retired from the Air Force in 1975.

Since 1980, Gen. Yeager has been a consulting test pilot for Northrop Corporation, where he has assisted in the development of the F-20 Tigershark, America's newest fighter.

The nation paid its highest tribute to General Yeager in 1976, when President Gerald Ford presented him with a special peacetime Medal of Honor.

His military decorations and awards include the Distinguished Service Medal with one oak leaf cluster, Silver Star with one oak leaf cluster, Legion of Merit with one oak leaf cluster, Distinguished Flying Cross with two oak leaf clusters, Bronze Star Medal with V device, Purple Heart, Distinguished Unit Citation Emblem with one oak leaf cluster, and the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award Ribbon.

He was awarded the MacKay Trophy in 1948, the Collier Trophy in 1948 and the Harmon International Trophy in 1954.

Gen. Yeager was awarded an honorary doctor of science degree from West Virginia University in 1948, and an honorary Doctor of Science degree from Marshall University in 1969.

In 1985, Gen. Yeager received the Presidential Medal of Freedom and was named as a member of the President's Commission on Space.

Gen. Yeager is married to the former Glennis Fay Dickhouse of Grass Valley, Calif. They have two sons, Donald C. and Michael D. Yeager, and two daughters, Mrs. Sharon C. Flick and Susan F. Yeager. General and Mrs. Yeager reside in Cedar Ridge, Calif.

Profile of Marshall University

Marshall College had a problem with its students:

"The most decided objection we have to find to any considerable number (of the students) is the tendency to study too long hours, a tendency we are trying to correct. . ."

The quotation comes from the 1909-10 Marshall College Catalog and one historian has attributed it to President Lawrence J. Corbly. The historian added his own wry comment: "President Corbly and his successors evidently met with considerable success in correcting this tendency."

The problem of overzealous students may have been exaggerated. In any event, Marshall has had more serious problems in an often-turbulent history extending back to 1837--some 26 years before the state of West Virginia was born.

The early history of Marshall is filled with colorful events and people.

To put things in chronological perspective, the academic melodrama started in 1837 when the good citizens of Guyandotte and the farming country to the west--now the city of Huntington--decided they needed an annual school to provide for the education of their youngsters.

Tradition records they met at the home of John Laidley, who assumed leadership of the project and named the new school Marshall Academy in honor of his friend, the late Chief Justice John Marshall.

They decided to locate their new school on a knoll known as "Maple Grove," site of a small log building called Mount Hebron Church. The structure also had served for some time as a subscription school for the area, open but three months each year.

It remained a subscription school that summer, conducted by Isaac H. Peck. It wasn't until March 30, 1838, that the General Assembly of Virginia passed an act formally incorporating Marshall Academy and appointing Laidley and eight other men as trustees.

On June 30 of that year, the trustees purchased from James and Lucy Holder-by the one and one-fourth acre lot containing their log "academy." The price: $40.

That land is now the site of Old Main.

The trustees proceeded to build a new two-story, brick building, 22 feet wide and 50 feet long, containing four rooms. It was completed by February, 1839.

The first full school term was conducted in 1838-39 with Peck serving as principal for a salary of $500.

In 1850, the academy and its financial obligations were accepted by the Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. In 1858, Marshall Academy was renamed Marshall College.

The coming of the Civil War nearly spelled the end of the young college. Lack of financial support, accumulated debts, court action and the war itself forced the school to close its doors in 1861. The property was sold at public auction.

Mrs. Salina Mason bought the land and building for $1,500 for her father, John W. Hite. He was a Confederate sympathizer and could not appear in court in his own behalf. For the next few years, Hite and his family lived in the college building.

During at least part of the war, a small school, probably a subscription school, was maintained at the college--fulfilling a provision in the original deed from James Holderby which specified it was to be used ". . .for the express purpose of an Academy (sic) and for no other use." The building also was used as a hospital during part of the conflict.

In the fall of 1866, the Southern Methodists made an attempt to regain control of the property, but were unable to raise enough money.

Meanwhile, the new state of West Virginia had recognized the need for an institution to train teachers to serve the state's public schools. After many months of wrangling over location, the Legislature on Feb. 27, 1867, voted approval of a bill establishing a "state normal school" to be located at Marshall College.

In order to get the college reopened, the voters of Cabell County approved a property tax levy amounting to $5,000. The state also appropriated funds and on Aug. 1, 1867, the schools' regents purchased the lot and building from Mrs. Mason for $3,600. The regents of the state normal school also authorized additions and repairs amounting to about $3,800.

During that period, the regents purchased an additional 10 acres land from William P. Holderby for $1,000. It turned out that there was a lien against the land and the regents had to ask the Legislature to authorize condemnation in order to obtain a valid title. In September, 1868, they obtained 13 and three-quarters acres at a price fixed at $1,375. This brought the college holdings to a total of 15 acres in order ". . . that there might be ample room around the buildings, and that the Steward of the College might be able to provide material for his table. . ."

In 1868, Marshall needed land for farming. A hundred years later, the problem was parking.

The first session of Marshall College as a state normal school began June 15, 1868, and lasted 10 weeks, but financial problems continued to plague the school. The Legislature made no appropriation for salaries and expenses for the year 1879-80 and Principal A.D. Chesterman had to struggle to keep the school open with the money received from tuition fees. These were not adequate to provide a proper teaching staff.

Matters began to improve during the administration of Thomas E. Hodges (1886-1896) as the state gradually increased its financial support.

During Hodges' last year, 1895-96, the school's enrollment exceeded 200 for the first time. The 1896 graduating class of 19 also was a record.

Hodges was followed by Lawrence J. Corbly, who was to serve 19 years--the longest tenure of any Marshall president with the exception of Stewart H. Smith (1946-68).

Corbly's administration marks a major turning point in Marshall's fortunes. Enrollment began a steady climb, from 258 in 1896-97 to 1,021 by 1907.

In 1905, construction was started on the final section of Old Main. This is the familiar "towers" segment facing the main entrance to the campus on Hal Greer Boulevard. With its completion, Old Main consisted of five sections. Reading from the east, these were completed in 1898, 1870, 1899, 1896 and 1907.

The first edition of the campus newspaper, The Parthenon, was published in 1898, although there had been an earlier newspaper with a different name.

Intercollegiate athletics got their start at Marshall during this period, with the first football team being fielded in 1898. The Marshall teams originally were known as the Blue and Black, but the now-familiar Green and White colors had been adopted by 1904.

In May, 1907, the board of regents adopted a plan for the reorganization of the college. Among other things, the plan changed Corbly's title from "principal" to "president" and raised his salary to $2,500 a year.

In 1907, Marshall was still strictly a secondary school. By 1912, the regents had added two years of study to the school's program, equivalent to the freshman and sophomore years in college. In 1914, President Corbly recommended that ". . . Marshall College should be made a 'college' in fact as well as in official name--a degree-conferring institution."

But when Corbly retired in 1915, Marshall was still a thriving junior college.

A few years later, however, his hopes were to be realized. In 1920, the State Board of Education approved Marshall's granting of a bachelor's degree in education. Teachers College conferred degrees upon four candidates in June, 1921.

The years ahead were to see steady physical and academic expansion and Marshall became a university in 1961. By the fall of 1984 Marshall had an enrollment exceeding 11,500, a full-time faculty of 384 and 105 part-time instructors.

The small academy has become a major university operating nine colleges and schools: College of Liberal Arts, College of Fine Arts, College of Science, College of Education, College of Business, Graduate School, School of Medicine, Community College, and School of Nursing.

Academic Heraldry

The custom of wearing academic regalia in the colleges and universities of the United States has been continuous since Colonial times. The colors indicating fields of study and degrees conferred are now of standard significance and at Marshall University show in the hoods worn by the Master's and Doctoral degree candidates. Hoods for both Master's and Doctor's are made of black, lined with silk chevrons in the official colors of the university conferring the degree, and trimmed with velvet collars in colors distinctive of the degree. The hoods of the Marshall Faculty represent the many institutions and variety of degrees that comprise a university faculty.
