FEATURING KIM BROWN AND JOHN KINZER

“Marshall gave me an opportunity to be successful in life. I’m very proud to be a Marshall alumnus. Seeing the changes on the campus is so exciting. And the best is yet to come.”

– John Kinzer
CLASS OF 1962

As a member of the Marshall University Foundation’s Board of Directors, Kim Brown was directly involved in helping initiate many projects that will build both facilities and infrastructure for the continued growth of Marshall University, including new sports facilities, student dormitories, student recreation center and sports fields. The past year also saw the announcement of a new engineering building and lab to renew the University’s engineering program. The first graduates of the program are expected in 2008.

While the past year saw many incidences of triumph at Marshall, a tragic fire at the Emmons Junior apartment building claimed nine lives, two of whom were Marshall students. The University’s response, led by interim CEO of the Marshall University Foundation John Kinzer, provided relief for the many students who were displaced by the worst fire to hit Huntington in half a century. The fund he and others started continues to provide relief for students who find themselves in need because of unforeseen circumstances.

While John will always be a friend and valued counselor to our university, it is fitting that he and Kim Brown be pictured together. As John transitions into retirement, a new generation of leadership will step forward to take our university to places it has never been. Each of us has an active role in writing the next chapter in the Marshall story.

From the Coalfields to Tinseltown, there was a realization that though our zip codes differ, we share a common heritage. A realization that We Are Marshall is not just a slogan but a reality that connects us. While Warner Bros.' skillful and loving retelling of the Marshall story was one of the most enduring events of the past year, it was far more than a reminiscence for many of the Marshall family.

THERE WASN'T A DRY EYE IN THE HOUSE

Wherever people who love our university gathered to watch We Are Marshall, they were moved.

Some of us found a sense of closure that our story was finally shared with the nation in a way that communicated to everyone, not just the sports fan. We thought about what our university had been. What it represents. And we considered anew what Marshall University can be.

Many people are taking part in actively and powerfully moving our institution forward. They are helping to write a new chapter that not only honors the past, but embraces a future where Marshall University will play a central role.

For the individual, we will embrace, encourage and enrich intellectual pursuits and educational acumen through faculty and facilities. We will help every student make the best of the collegiate experience.

From a regional perspective, Marshall will be an engine of economic growth. The past year saw the first licensing fees derived from a technology developed at Marshall University. Marshall continued to provide special educational resources capable of helping local schoolchildren identify and break through learning obstacles. The intellectual power flowing both into and from our university is at an unprecedented level.

From a national and international standpoint, we are continuing to strive for perfection. It is a mission that is evidenced through learning resources around the region and as far away as India. Each day, graduates across the country and around the world display skills, work ethic and pride representative of our great university.

I just want to pass on to other people some of the wonderful things that have happened to me and my wife, Verna. The changes we have seen and been a part of have really been remarkable. And this is just the beginning.

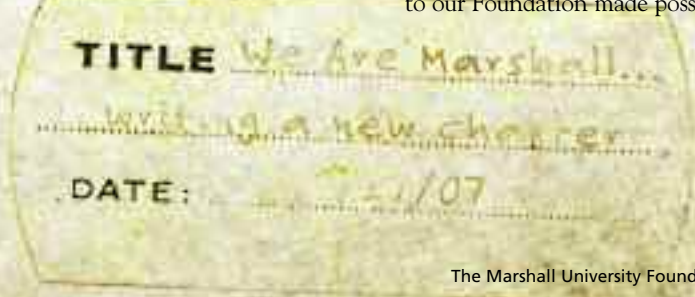

— JIM GIBSON

simply snapshots of achievement...achievements that gifts to our Foundation made possible.

These are powerful things...things that simply could not happen without the financial support of individuals. We are Marshall. And we are better than we've ever been before.

On the cover: Many will remember 2006-2007 as the year the Warner Bros. Pictures movie We Are Marshall brought Hollywood and Huntington together. Matthew McConaughey, Matthew Fox and Kate Mara attended the showing at the Keith-Albee, along with receptions before and after the movie. The movie, which finished among the highest grossing football movies ever, recalled the story of the 1970 plane crash that claimed the lives of 75 people, including most of the Thundering Herd football team.

Pictured on the cover is 2007 College of Education graduate Zac Arrowood. In the many photos in this report to our friends, you will find people who did great things at Marshall over the past year. These are by no means the only events worthy of praise...they are

WRITING A SEQUEL

Building on the Marshall University tradition

We've all been to enough movies to understand that the sequel rarely lives up to the original. Yet the life of a university can be seen as a sequel of sorts...each generation building on the achievements of the last. Excellence is not a destination, but a way of life.

With this in mind, I am pleased to announce the exceptional progress we've made as an institution over the past year.

The financials reported in this report show a robust growth that is indicative of the commitment of our supporters. The growth of our Foundation speaks to the wisdom of people like John Kinzer and the Foundation board members who have nurtured these gifts. The fact that new giving has more than doubled this decade alone shows that the best days for Marshall University are yet to come...and that we are a growing, vital institution.

On behalf of the Marshall Foundation and development staff, thank you for your continued support of higher education and your commitment to advance the University to a new level.

While we are and will always be in the midst of writing a new chapter in the life of our university, we can take pride in the accomplishments of those who have helped nurture this university to the place it is today. And we can have an active role in taking it to even greater heights.

FEATURING DR. JOE WYATT

Marshall University's College of Liberal Arts has received a $1.27 million European Union-United States Atlantis grant to lead a consortium with the University of Debrecen in Hungary and the Warsaw School of Social Psychology in Poland to create a transatlantic dual-degree program in psychology.

The Atlantis grant funds collaborative efforts to develop programs of study leading to joint or dual undergraduate degrees. Under the Atlantis grant, Marshall University students will have the opportunity to earn a bachelor's degree from both Marshall and one of the European partner institutions. Dr. Joe Wyatt and Dr. Marty Amerikaner, professors in Marshall's department of psychology, worked with Dr. Christina Murphy, former dean of MU's College of Liberal Arts, and Dr. Clark Egnor, executive director, Center for International Programs, on the successful grant proposal.

The Atlantis Program is a cooperative enterprise between the U.S. Department of Education and the European Commission. Marshall is one of only seven universities to receive this grant.

FEATURING JEAN EDWARD SMITH

Smith is the author of twelve books, including the definitive biography of Chief Justice John Marshall.

Marshall University's professors enlighten people in places other than the classroom. Case in point is Marshall University Professor Jean Edward Smith's groundbreaking biography of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, titled FDR. The critically acclaimed 880-page work was published by Random House. Professor Smith was one of three finalists for the Pulitzer Prize in 2002 for his biography of Ulysses Grant.

“Marshall gave me the opportunity to get a great education and develop the leadership and social skills I needed to succeed in life. I am so very proud that the University has become the academic and research cornerstone for the Tri-State area – especially the new medical school, which has proven to be an economic engine for the entire region.”

— JIM SUMMERS
CLASS OF 1970

Huntington is very community-oriented. I firmly believe what's good for Marshall is good for Huntington, and vice versa. I believe that by supporting Marshall, I am helping the community. I donate to the HELP endowment fund in memory of my father, John, who was a teacher, guidance counselor and vice principal. My dad enjoyed helping students and would bend over backward for his students to succeed. HELP embodies what my dad admired about the process of educating students and reflects his philosophy—giving students direction, guidance and encouragement. The movie reflected the collective spirit of Marshall and how it tried to do what was right for the University and the town.

The best way to express thanks for the benefits that we've received from our association with Marshall University is to support our alma mater, so that these opportunities can be made available for successive generations. There is a temptation to wait until you can make a substantial contribution, but the result is that you miss opportunities to give back in the meantime. My advice is to make a pledge now, no matter how modest. You'll feel more connected to the University and you'll know that you're helping to carry the legacy forward for others.

— MICHAEL MCCARTHY

FEATURING MEGHANN WALLIS

Meghann Wallis received her bachelor's degree in business in 2006. Both Meghann and her university received great marks. Marshall University was rated a "Top School" and a "Top Public University" in the Southern Master's Universities category in U.S. News & World Report's list of "America's Best Colleges 2007."

In the "Top Schools" list, Marshall tied for 41st place out of 128 public and private universities. Marshall tied at 14 of 71 public universities in the "Top Publics" list and further distinguished itself in the "Peer Assessment" component of the rankings. U.S. News & World Report surveys presidents, provosts and deans of admission for their opinions of the other schools in their respective categories.

Marshall's Peer Assessment rating is 3.4. Of the 71 public universities reflected in the U.S. News & World Report rankings, only four public schools achieved a higher peer rating. Just nine of all Master's Universities surveyed topped Marshall's peer rating.

FEATURING JOHNNY WALKER AND KAREN BOHNE

Yeager Scholars follow a rigorous academic program with study abroad, faculty mentoring and multidisciplinary seminars as part of the curriculum. The Society of Yeager Scholars honors retired U.S. Air Force Brigadier General Charles E. "Chuck" Yeager.

Ultimately, the purpose of a university is to challenge, shape, and engage a new group of leaders and thinkers. This focus permeates our university... from the Greek system and student government to groundbreaking teaching programs to the HELP program for students with learning disabilities.

The Yeager Scholars, including Johnny Walker and Karen Bohne, carry the standard for high-achieving students at Marshall. Each Yeager Scholar is provided a four-year scholarship that includes full tuition and fees; full room and board; study at Oxford University; a stipend for textbooks and supplies; additional study abroad experience; and a personal computer and peripherals. But Yeager Scholars receive a great deal more than just scholarships. They become part of an academic tradition that provides each Scholar with an enhanced university education.

“The professors were outstanding, and the quality of teaching was remarkable at Marshall. My Marshall experience helped carry me through my graduate studies at the University of Illinois and beyond.”

— ROBERT FOX
CLASS OF 1952

As a Society of Yeager Scholar alumnus, I was able to take advantage of amazing opportunities to grow and challenge myself because of the generosity, vision and selflessness of the individuals who constructed and supported the Society. Now, as a member of the Society's Board of Directors, I strive to emulate those characteristics and encourage others to follow their example. Marshall is truly a family community. I was not a number as a student – I was somebody whom professors and staff and other students knew.

It is not only the time that you spend at Marshall as a student that shapes your life, it is also the time you spend as an alumnus giving back so that others can enjoy those opportunities.

“ Marshall is not just important, but it is central to my life. It is the place of my employment as a faculty member – and a long-term investment for me and for people like me who believe in and support higher education. It is rewarding to know that I am participating in the dream of bigger and better things for Marshall as we strive for more excellence. It gives me a pleasant feeling when I give back something to a place where I, and probably many others like me, owe part of their success in life. Technology is exploding exponentially. Marshall University has taken the lead in forging a 21st-century interactive campus and is one of the ‘most wired’ universities in the U.S. The University’s mission to fashion a ‘campus with no boundaries’ is truly phenomenal.”

— DR. MAJED KHADER
PROFESSOR AND DEPARTMENT HEAD,
MARSHALL UNIVERSITY LIBRARIES

FEATURING KEITH DAMRON

Across our campus, you can find evidence that Marshall University is embracing the future. The $48 million Robert C. Byrd Biotechnology Science Center provides evidence that students like Keith Damron are finding careers that will make life better in the 21st century. The facility, which is located on Third Avenue across from the Science Building, brings together faculty, staff and students from both the Joan C. Edwards School of Medicine and the College of Science. The facility was dedicated last year, and plans are under way to equip a new state-of-the-art lab facility.

The University's advanced $3.5 million engineering lab will feature a 16,000-square-foot facility for classrooms, offices and lab environments.

Marshall University becomes a part of who we are, and we become a part of what Marshall is. There can be no better slogan than 'We Are Marshall.' I know for a fact that I am Marshall through and through. This is my school. I did not attend classes here. I do not have a degree from here, but this is my school.

— COACH MARK GALE
ASSISTANT ATHLETIC DIRECTOR,
FOOTBALL OPERATIONS

FEATURING SAM E. CLAGG

Cam Henderson racked up a record 362 basketball wins during a dual coaching career (basketball and football) from 1935 to 1955.

Sam Clagg was a student-athlete under Henderson.

While We Are Marshall was the highest profile project of the year, it was not the only project to tell our story. Former acting MU President Sam E. Clagg was featured in the Emmy Award-winning documentary on the life of Marshall's legendary basketball coach Cam Henderson: A Coach's Story by Deborah Novak and John Witek.

There are few sons of Marshall who have more fully been a part of university life than the venerable Clagg. He is a graduate, was an athlete who played for Coach Henderson, a teacher, a coach, a department head, an administrator and the creator of two endowed scholarships. Now he can add his appearance in an Emmy-winning documentary to that list.

Marshall University is continually striving for perfection and continues to find ways to positively represent West Virginia. I am most proud of the dedication and commitment Marshall has made to provide a quality education to the future leaders of West Virginia. Every contribution, no matter how big or small, makes a difference in the future of our campus and community. Who wouldn't want to see their alma mater continue to grow and develop? I believe now is the time to start making that happen. Marshall prepared me for a professional career, and thanks to the guidance, encouragement and solid foundation it provided, I feel it is my obligation to allow other young adults to have a similar experience. We are Marshall, and it's up to us to make a difference in its future!

From the time Lauren was born, she had a strong will to live. She was always a fighter and had a positive attitude. Lauren was very determined, and her life served as an inspiration to many people. Lauren found a home at Marshall. She enjoyed the small campus, nurturing environment and the people. Marshall is full of good people. My wife, Cathy, and I decided to establish the Lauren Simpkins Damron Memorial Fund to celebrate Lauren's life, preserve her memory and do something special in her name. Lauren was sensitive and caring to those less fortunate and those with special needs. The fund will help physically challenged students, and we know Lauren would be pleased that her memory is being honored in such a special way.

The Marshall University Upward Bound program received funding for four additional years in May 2007. The program has been on Marshall's campus since 1972 and is funded by the United States Department of Education.

Upward Bound programs are designed to prepare and motivate low-income and/or first-generation high school students to pursue a postsecondary education. The program offers multiple services throughout the year and is best known for its intensive six-week summer program, when the students live on campus learning about college life and preparing for college-level classes. Students Olivia Chaffin and Justin Vaughn participated in Upward Bound.

The Upward Bound program mentors 70 high school students from Cabell County (Cabell Midland and Huntington High), Mingo County (Tug Valley) and Wayne County (Tolsia and Wayne high schools).

FEATURING DONNIE JONES, SAMANTHA RODRIGUEZ AND GINA GUZZO

When completed, Marshall's new softball facilities will meet or exceed all NCAA regulations and be among the finest in the eastern United States.

Donnie Jones came home in 2007. A native of Point Pleasant and former MU assistant coach, Jones was tapped to guide the Thundering Herd basketball team as its new head coach. Jones was instrumental in helping the Florida Gators capture two consecutive NCAA National Championships.

Catcher Gina Guzzo and 2006 2nd team all-CUSA selection Samantha Rodriguez.

Many other important things happened in Thundering Herd sports in 2007. A truncated list includes:

- CUSA Tennis Player of the Year Kelly Schmitt's appearance in the NCAA Women's Singles Tournament.
- Marshall junior slugger Rachel Folden was selected as a Louisville Slugger/NFCA All-American. It was the third time Rachel had been named an All-American. Softball continues to grow in popularity among the University's sports, and new facilities are under construction.
- In football, tight end Cody Slate was named a first-team freshman All-American by The Sporting News and College Football News.com. Defensive end Albert McClellan was named the 2006 CUSA Defensive Player of the Year, while center Doug Legursky was named to Street & Smith's 2007 College Football Yearbook preseason All-America second team. Running back Ahmad Bradshaw was selected in the 2007 draft by the New York Giants.
- Basketball player Tyler Wilkerson was a member of a team that represented the United States as part of Athletes in Action 2007 Jones Cup, held in Taipei, Taiwan. Jean Francois Bro Grebe was a member of The Ivory Coast team in All Africa Games.
- Marshall University's men's cross country team was honored by the U.S. Track and Field and Cross Country Coaches Association (USTFCCCA) as one of the organization's Division I Men's All-Academic Teams. The 2006 Thundering Herd men posted a cumulative team GPA of 3.279. Four Marshall University teams received Conference USA awards for academic performance.
- Conference USA Sport Academic Award winners are awarded to the team in each conference-sponsored sport with the highest grade point average for the academic year. Marshall men's soccer, men's cross country, women's golf, and women's swimming and diving earned conference academic honors.
- Volleyball continued to be a hot sport at Marshall. In 2007, Marshall's facilities were upgraded to make them among the top in the conference. There was plenty of excitement on the court as spiker Kelly-Anne Billingsy won her second Conference USA Player of the Year and led the NCAA in kills per game.

FEATURING DRS. RICHARD NILES AND HONGWEI YU

“The establishment of Progenesis Technologies is another excellent example of how Marshall University is advancing research-based economic development,”

Marshall President
Stephen J. Kopp said.

In 2007, Marshall University announced the establishment of the new biotech company Progenesis Technologies, LLC, the latest in a series of high-tech businesses entering the local economy after being created by university faculty. Progenesis is the brainchild of Drs. Richard Niles and Hongwei Yu, two scientists in the Joan C. Edwards School of Medicine at Marshall. Yu is a microbial geneticist who has the capacity to alter the genome of bacteria to make commercially important products. Niles is an accomplished researcher with past experience in biotech start-up development.

FEATURING RICHARD MERRITT AND SAEED KESHAVARZIAN

In April, eight Marshall University mathematics students went to Capitol Hill in Washington, D.C., to display their work on the Marshall Differential Analyzer, affectionately known as "Lizzie," a machine designed to solve a mathematical differential equation. Richard Merritt and Saeed Keshavarzian are among those working on what will be the most sophisticated differential analyzer at any public university in America.

Students took part in the annual Undergraduate Research Posters on the Hill event, sponsored by the Council on Undergraduate Research.

Ruth and John were brother and sister and best friends for life. They shared a love of Marshall. Ruth had a big heart. She believed in giving back. She wanted to support Marshall and the future. Ruth loved life, loved people, loved Marshall, loved going to Marshall football games. She was very generous in her support of the University. As the former vice president of development for Marshall, I have seen first-hand how the Butlers' generosity has positively impacted the University.

FEATURING DRS. RICHARD BEGLEY AND MICHAEL NORTON

The new lighting technology developed by Drs. Begley and Norton offers many commercial applications, including use in transportation, safety, marketing and consumer products.

A brighter future for Marshall University could be the result of inventive thinking. In 2007, Marshall received its first royalty check as a result of a new lighting technology — ElectroCeramescent Lighting — developed by Dr. Richard Begley and Dr. Michael Norton. LECD is an emerging light platform that differs from other lighting technology because of both superior durability and energy efficiency. This technology was created via partnerships with the Nick J. Rahall, II Appalachian Transportation Institute (RTI) and the Robert C. Byrd Institute (RCBI) for Advanced Flexible Manufacturing. U.S. Rep. Nick J. Rahall, II said news of the royalty checks makes this “truly a landmark day in the history of Marshall University.”

“ I am proud to be a graduate of Marshall University, and I have great memories from my time at Marshall.
 I was a student there during the Depression, so I feel lucky to have a degree. I want to help others get an education.”

FEATURING DR. KOPP

"I have been asked numerous times about my vision for Marshall University. The question I prefer to discuss is the collective vision WE have for the future. I believe that creativity can solve almost any problem, but we must know where we are going. That begins with a self-defined design for our future. We need to imagine it. We need to expect it. And then, we need to dedicate ourselves fully to it. Only then will our future manifest."

Dr. Stephen J. Kopp became the 36th president of West Virginia's oldest public institution on July 1, 2005.

“ I’m very proud of Marshall.
There’s a sense that Marshall is growing, becoming a bigger player regionally.
It’s an exciting time.”

CONTINUING THE STORY THROUGH YOUR GENEROSITY

Virtually every day, alumni from Marshall prove that the story immortalized in the film We Are Marshall unites us, but does not define us. They do this through the simple act of giving. This is something that transcends a donation. It is an outward manifestation that they believe Marshall's best days are still to come.

The Marshall University Foundation's ability to uphold its mission is a direct result of the relationships our donors develop with people and programs on four campuses. With continued support and the steady performance of the Foundation's endowment, we are able to make funds available to the University that provide new opportunities for students and faculty, develop programs, improve facilities and enhance campus life. Contributions from individuals, corporations and organizations are managed prudently according to policies developed by the Marshall Foundation's Board of Directors. Funds are used in ways that honor the wishes of the donors.

To view the complete audited report, please see the financial report section of The Marshall University Foundation's website at www.marshalluniversityfoundation.com

Gifts of Cash

Gifts of cash are the most common form of giving. Outright gifts of cash to the Marshall University Foundation, Inc., are charitable contributions and qualify for deductions on your federal income tax return for those who itemize deductions.

Real Estate

A gift of appreciated real estate provides an immediate tax deduction of the value of the property. You may choose to fund a life income plan or other trust with the proceeds from the sale of real estate. You may donate your home or farm to the University and retain a lifetime right to use the property or stipulate that certain family members may have a life interest in the property, through an arrangement called a "life estate contract."

Gifts of Appreciated Securities

Most donors who have held securities for more than one year have seen those investments appreciate in value. By making a gift of those securities to The Marshall University Foundation Inc. you gain an immediate tax deduction of the market value of the gift as permitted by law.

Life Income Plans or Living Trusts

If you wish to make a gift to The Marshall University Foundation, Inc., but first want to provide for income during your lifetime or that of your spouse or other family member, the following may be of interest:

The gift annuity is a contract between you and the Foundation – combining a gift to Marshall and fixed lifetime income to you.

The charitable remainder trust provides an immediate income tax deduction for the value of the remainder interest in the trust based on Internal Revenue Service life expectancy tables, your age and rate of return at the time.

Bequests

Bequests – special gifts made through a will – have been significant sources of support for Marshall and are the most straightforward form of estate giving. A bequest to The Marshall University Foundation, Inc., is not subject to estate tax and helps reduce the tax liability for your heirs.
