

Graduate Certificates

MARSHALL UNIVERSITY

Marshall University offers 32 different Graduate Certificates (5 available online). A Certificate program is a short, focused program of study, typically between 12 and 21 credits, which can help you enhance your job skills, earn recognition, and even increase your marketability.

Graduate Certificates:

- Offer specialized programs that may meet licensure or continuing education goals;
- Can add valuable skills and knowledge to your resume for career enhancement;
- Can usually be earned in less than half the time of a degree;
- Provide knowledge and skills for career enhancement;
- Offer the option to pursue a certificate while enrolled in the master's degree program;
- Provide a convenient way to meet professional development requirements, to update credentials, or just to take some interesting courses;
- Offer an opportunity to pursue professional advancement without making a commitment to a degree program;
- In many cases allow students to apply certificate credits earned to a degree program.

Admission: Students can be enrolled in a graduate certificate program and a master's or doctoral program simultaneously.

Students already enrolled in the degree program which grants the certificate should submit to Graduate Admissions a Secondary Program Request form: www.marshall.edu/graduate/forms/Secondary Program Request Form.pdf

Prospective certificate-only students should apply for admission to Marshall University as a Certificate/Professional Development student and select on the application form the certificate they wish to pursue. In most cases the requirements for admission to a certificate program are the same as for admission to the degree program which grants the certificate. However, requirements can vary. Please be sure to consult the certificate description in the degree programs section of the Graduate Catalog.
