In order to reach a broader applicant pool, MU-ADVANCE purchased a subscription to the HigherEdJobs.com website, where academic jobs are posted. In two years, 115 MU jobs have been advertised there. Has this subscription had an impact on recruitment at MU? More...

Meet the Faculty: Dr. Jayme Waldron

Dr. Jayme Waldron is a visiting Assistant Professor in the Department of Biological Sciences. Prior to coming to Marshall, Dr. Waldron was a Post-doctoral Research Associate at the University of Georgia, studying the diamondback rattlesnake. Her research involves the application of life history data to the conservation of amphibians and reptiles. Dr. Waldron currently teaches Ornithology; Conservation of Forests, Soil, and Wildlife; and Journal Club. More...

Resource: HigherEdJobs.com

In an effort to assist search committees with their recruitment efforts, MU-ADVANCE purchased a subscription to HigherEdJobs.com. This service is offered campus-wide, free of charge, to any hiring department. There are no posting or word limitations attached. We encourage you to announce all of your open positions with as much detail needed to attract the best candidates. If you are interested in posting a position on this site, email Heidi Williams for more information.

Recommendations or suggestions for additional resources for the MU-ADVANCE Office can be sent to Heidi Williams: (willi143@marshall.edu).
