

HEALTH CARE RESOURCES

West Virginia Prevention Resource Center

<http://prevnet.marshall.edu>

Making a sustainable impact on reducing substance abuse and related issues is the goal of this center. Information, networking and collaboration, facilitated learning and training, and evaluation are available.

West Virginia Autism Training Center

www.marshall.edu/coe/atc

The center provides training, information and support for West Virginians with autism, their families, educators and others.

Family coaching, college adjustment assistance, a lending library, and in-services/workshops for school personnel and service agency employees are among the programs and services offered.

Robert C. Byrd Center for Rural Health

<http://crh.marshall.edu>

Diabetes management, smoking cessation, elder care and cancer prevention are among the programs under way at this facility. The center also serves as the base for Marshall's rural medicine outreach programs, which affect citizens in more than half of West Virginia's counties.

Edwards Comprehensive Cancer Center

www.edwardsccc.org

Established through a partnership between the university's medical school and Cabell Huntington Hospital, the center offers patients access to the most current protocols for cancer diagnosis, treatment and care.

World-class physicians, radiologists, surgeons and nurses provide a full range of diagnosis and treatment services, including surgery, radiation, chemotherapy, laboratory testing and clinical trials.

Joan C. Edwards School of Medicine

www.musom.marshall.edu

Clinical and basic research at the Marshall University Joan C. Edwards School of Medicine is undertaken in technologically advanced facilities and focuses on health issues related to rural populations.

The school ranks third in the nation in the percentage of graduates entering family practice residency programs and has received a "Top Ten Award" from the American Academy of Family Physicians.
