The Alumni Legacy Scholarship Program has been developed to encourage children and grandchildren who are away from the state and region to consider attending Marshall University by providing a scholarship that helps offset the difference between in-state and non-resident tuition costs. To qualify for this program, the student must be entering Marshall University as a first-time, full-time freshman and be charged metro or non-resident tuition rates, and meet certain academic criteria. In addition, the student must provide documentation that the parent or grandparent is an active member of the Marshall University Alumni Association. Alumni are active members when they make a financial donation to the Marshall University Foundation.

The Alumni Legacy Tuition Scholarship may not be combined with any other Marshall University Scholarship or Grant program. Students shall be awarded either the Alumni Legacy Tuition Waiver or other Marshall University awards depending on which is more advantageous. The Alumni Tuition Waiver may only be applied to Marshall University tuition charges during the fall and spring semesters. It does not cover the cost of e-courses or fees for courses charged by another institution of higher education.

 I have confirmed that my parent or grandparent is an active Marshall University alumnus/alumna by attaching documentation demonstrating that he or she has made a current donation to Marshall University. (Please visit www.marshall.edu/edu/alumni or call 304-696-3134 for information regarding donations.)
