Autism ACROSS the LIFESPAN

2027 Call for Proposals

The West Virginia Autism Training Center at Marshall University and the Autism Society of West Virginia are seeking proposals for presentations for the 2027 Autism Across the Lifespan Conference.

September 9 & 10, 2027
Marshall University

About the Conference

The Autism Across the Lifespan Conference is a two-day event held annually in Huntington, WV and streamed virtually. The conference is designed to provide educators, human service professionals, family members, caregivers, and individuals diagnosed with autism an opportunity to discover more about ASD. Join us to learn more about autism from national and regional professionals in addition to those with personal expertise who want to share their lived experience.

Call for Proposals

Proposals for presentations that address issues relevant to the experience of ASD across the lifespan are now being accepted. Presenters must be available to present in person at Marshall University on either September 9 or 10, 2027. Presentation length should be 60 to 90 minutes and the deadline for submission is 4:30 pm January 8, 2027. Potential topics may include education, behavior support, adult services, community supports, communication support and strategies, relevant research, and other autism related issues.
