The Student Center for the Public Trust Achieves Highest Tier Ranking

Marshall University's chapter of the Student Center for the Public Trust has achieved the highest tier ranking of Ambassador for the 2024-2025 academic year making this the seventh year in a row that Marshall University has achieved the highest national recognition.

The Student Center for the Public Trust is a national network of college students who demonstrate a commitment to ethical leadership. Tiers are hosted on college campuses across the country, which provide students with opportunities to participate in training sessions, conferences, community service, and business ethics competitions.

Since its inception, the Student Center for the Public Trust has focused on chapter performance levels where chapters are classified into levels or tiers based on completion of certifications, leader recognition, attendance at leadership conferences, speaker series, and ethics competitions.

Margie McInerney Award Recipients

Shad Mitchell, Cassandra Taylor, and Dr. Alberto Coustasse-Hencke were recently awarded the Margie McInerney award for best doctoral project at the School of Nurse Anesthesia's Hooding Ceremony.
