LCOB named in The Princeton Review's Best On-Campus MBA Programs list for 2025

The Lewis College of Business is proud to share that we have been mentioned as one of the 213 schools named on The Princeton Review's list of "Best On-Campus MBA Programs", which is part of their overall Best Business Schools for 2025 report, where we were also ranked #45 for the Top 50 Online MBA Programs for 2025.

Congratulations to our excellent students, staff and faculty for making these distinctions possible.

Student Success Story - Zane Walters

We are proud to congratulate Zane Walters on being selected as Marshall Health's first Administrative Fellow. A recent graduate of the Master of Healthcare Administration program in the Lewis College of Business, Zane has demonstrated exceptional dedication, curiosity, and leadership throughout his academic journey. His passion for healthcare and commitment to making a meaningful impact were clear long before graduation, and we are thrilled to see him take this next step in his career.

I grew up just across the river from Marshall University and had always aspired to attend college there. Although I didn't originally plan to pursue a degree in business, I became friends with Dr. Ben Eng while I was still in high school, and he encouraged me to keep my options open. After realizing that my initial academic path wasn't the right fit, I completed my undergraduate degree in Health Science and soon discovered the Lewis College of Business's Master of Healthcare Administration (MHA) program. It felt like the perfect way to align my long-standing interest in healthcare with a meaningful career path.

I recently graduated from Marshall University with a master's degree in healthcare administration and am proud to now serve as Marshall Health's first Administrative Fellow. Interestingly, I learned about the fellowship through an assignment I completed during my time in the MHA program. The position immediately stood out to me as an ideal next step, and with strong support from Dr. Eng and others I had built relationships with during my time at Marshall, I applied, interviewed, and was honored to be offered the role.

As the Administrative Fellow, I am gaining hands-on experience by working on key projects and shadowing business leaders in a healthcare setting. The fellowship is uniquely tailored to my interests and career goals, while also providing exposure to a wide range of areas within healthcare administration. I am deeply grateful for my time at Marshall University—the education I received, the friendships I built, and the doors that have opened as a result. A special thank you to Dr. Ben Eng and Dr. Kent Willis for their mentorship and support. Go Herd!
