Benediction

Recessional - Ceremonial Marches

Alma Mater

*Marshall Gracious Alma Mater,
We thy name revere:
May each noble son and daughter
Cherish thine honor dear.
May thy lamp be ever bright
Guiding us to truth and light;
As a beacon o'er dark water
This is for thee our prayer.*

*May the years be kind to Marshall;
May she grow in fame;
May her children fail her never
True to her beacon flame.
May her spirit brave and strong
Honor right and conquer wrong;
This the burden of our song
Ever her truth proclaim.*

The audience is requested to be seated following the Benediction and remain seated until the class has recessed.

The Grand Mace

The Grand Mace (opposite), a symbol of authority and leadership, is carried by the Chief Marshal of the faculty at all formal University occasions and is displayed on the platform during these functions. The Mace is made from a limb that fell from the Old Beech Tree in front of Old Main on the University Campus. The top of the Mace consists of a gold plated bronze casting that features on one side the Seal of Marshall University and on the other the Great Seal of the State of West Virginia. These are surrounded by a laurel of beech leaves and the entire casting is crested by a torch symbolic of academic excellence. Immediately below the top casting is a four-sided section that contains carved symbols significant in the history of the University--The Towers of Old Main, Memorial Fountain, the Seal of Marshall College, and a buffalo, official mascot of the institution's athletic teams. The area immediately surrounding the four carvings features small clusters of beech nuts and leaves. The center portion of the Mace is carved in double wrap ribbon, one-half inch wide. Between the gaps in the ribbon wraps are carved beech leaves descending in size. The base of the Mace is protected by a gold plated bronze casting of beech leaf clusters. The entire Mace weighs about 25 pounds and is 66 inches from the top of the torch to the base.

The President's Medallion

The President's Medallion or Badge of Office of the Presidency of Marshall University (at right) consists of a relief carving of the Seal of the University featuring the bust of Chief Justice John Marshall. It is suspended from the President's neck with a kelly green and white ribbon, the official colors of the institution. The Medallion is worn by the President when he is participating in formal University affairs. The reverse side of the Medallion is inscribed with the names of the previous Presidents of the institution.

Both The Grand Mace and The President's Medallion were created in 1986 by Byron Johnson. Mr. Johnson, an honor graduate of Marshall University, is a renowned wood carver and sculptor as well as an art teacher in the public schools.

NELSON SLADE BOND

A prolific writer, Nelson Bond is the author of seven books, three plays, six motion pictures, several company histories, more than 500 stories and articles in national magazines, more than 300 network radio plays and more than 50 network television plays. He was the author of the first full-length play ever produced on a television network - at a time when the network consisted of only three cities.

Born November 23, 1908, Bond spent his childhood living in Toronto, Scranton, Pennsylvania, Plattsburgh, New York, Washington, D.C. and Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He attended Marshall University from 1931 to 1934. He and his wife, the former Betty Gough Folsom, have lived in Roanoke, Virginia since 1939 and are the parents of two sons. They also have four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Following his long, successful career as a free-lance writer, Bond "retired" in the 1960s, but soon became involved full-time with another of his interests - antiquarian books dealer. Even in this new career, his writing talents found an appreciative audience. His book catalogs, interspersed with quips, verses and humorous observations, made the catalogs themselves collectors' items.

Bond has been elected to membership in the Antiquarian Booksellers Association of America (ABAA), a society limited to proven and respected experts in the field.

Nelson Bond credits much of his success to the tutelage he received from the late W. Page Pitt at Marshall University and to his association with what he termed "the most talented group of writers-to-be ever to grace a college campus." He has demonstrated repeatedly that he deserves to be ranked very high among that group.

PAUL DONALD BUTCHER

A native of Lundale, West Virginia, Rear Admiral (Upper Level) Paul Donald Butcher assumed duties in September 1987 as deputy commander in chief and chief of staff of the United States Navy's Atlantic Fleet, an assignment calling for vice admiral (three-star) rank.

Butcher has made his reputation as a sea-going naval officer, including command in combat and as admiral in command of the Western Pacific Surface Group. As a combat commander, he has been decorated for valor under fire. He also has served six tours of duty in the Pentagon and is known as a professional in the national political-military process who has had a major role in developing policy and handling sensitive issues over the past quarter-century.

He is perhaps best known for his significant role in bringing about the assignment of female personnel to the Navy's sea-going ships, including combat vessels.

A graduate of Barboursville (West Virginia) High School, Butcher earned his Bachelor of Arts degree from Marshall University in 1953. He received both academic and extracurricular honors as a Marshall student while working at the same time as a newspaper reporter for the Huntington Herald-Dispatch.

He has been married to the former Phyllis Christian of Huntington, also a Marshall graduate, for the past 34 years and they are the parents of three children.

Dedication, courage and initiative have earned great respect for Admiral Butcher and, in turn, his alma mater.

ROBERTA SHINN EMERSON

Roberta Shinn Emerson

Roberta S. Emerson, who recently retired after serving as director of the Huntington Museum of Art (formerly Huntington Galleries) from 1971 through 1987, has been recognized for building the museum and making it a major force in the region's cultural milieu.

During her tenure, the Huntington Museum of Art has grown from five staff members to 30 and its annual budget has increased from $125,000 to $1.2 million. Membership has increased nearly 2,500 and annual contributions have risen from $61,000 to $235,000.

Mrs. Dorothy Polan, a long-time member of the museum's board of directors, noted recently, "When she (Mrs. Emerson) stepped in, we were a small, unknown museum with a very fine facility. She's not only seen the expansion of the facility, but of our aspirations."

Born February 15, 1922 in Indianapolis, Indiana, Mrs. Emerson is the wife of a Huntington attorney and the mother of three grown children. She studied at Northwestern University, the University of Chicago, the Art Institute of Chicago and, in 1965, received her A.B. degree from Marshall University where she also has served as an instructor of art appreciation and the history of European painting.

Mrs. Emerson has been extremely active in a wide range of organizations devoted to promotion of the arts and has been honored with membership in the Huntington Hall of Fame and as the Huntington Herald-Dispatch "Citizen of the Year" and the Charleston Gazette-Mail "West Virginian of the Year" for 1987.

Through her life and career, Mrs. Emerson has had a profound effect on cultural life throughout West Virginia and the Tri-State Region.

GEORGE STANLEY McGOVERN

George McGovern was born and reared in South Dakota, the son of a Methodist minister.

He received his B.A. degree from Dakota Wesleyan University and his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Northwestern University, majoring in history.

He served as B-24 bomber pilot in World War II winning the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Elected to the U.S. House of Representatives in 1956 and 1958, McGovern was appointed by President John F. Kennedy as Director of Food for Peace.

He was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1962 and re-elected in 1968 and 1974. During his 18-year Senate career he became a leader of the movement to end the war in Vietnam and led the effort to forge a national nutrition policy for the United States.

He won the Democratic nomination for the Presidency in 1972 and was defeated in the general election by Richard Nixon.

He was appointed as a delegate to the United Nations by both Presidents Ford and Carter.

McGovern and his wife, Eleanor, have four daughters and one son. They now reside in Washington, D.C.

Since leaving the U.S. Senate in 1981, McGovern has served as a guest professor at Northwestern University, The University of New Orleans, Duke University, American University, The University of Pennsylvania, and the University of Munich, West Germany.

He was the first occupant of the John Deaver Drinko and Elizabeth G. Drinko Distinguished Chair in Liberal Arts at Marshall University in the fall of 1987.

George Stanley McGovern

Profile of Marshall University

Marshall College had a problem with its students:

"The most decided objection we have to find to any considerable number (of the students) is the tendency to study too long hours, a tendency we are trying to correct. . . ."

The quotation comes from the 1909-10 Marshall College Catalog and one historian has attributed it to President Lawrence J. Corbly. The historian added his own wry comment: "President Corbly and his successors evidently met with considerable success in correcting this tendency."

The problem of overzealous students may have been exaggerated. In any event, Marshall has had more serious problems in an often-turbulent history extending back to 1837--some 26 years before the state of West Virginia was born.

The early history of Marshall is filled with colorful events and people.

To put things in chronological perspective, the academic melodrama started in 1837 when the good citizens of Guyandotte and the farming country to the west--now the city of Huntington--decided they needed an annual school to provide for the education of their youngsters.

Tradition records they met at the home of John Laidley, who assumed leadership of the project and named the new school Marshall Academy in honor of his friend, the late Chief Justice John Marshall.

They decided to locate their new school on a knoll known as "Maple Grove," site of a small log building called Mount Hebron Church. The structure also had served for some time as a subscription school for the area, open but three months each year.

It remained a subscription school that summer, conducted by Isaac H. Peck. It wasn't until March 30, 1838, that the General Assembly of Virginia passed an act formally incorporating Marshall Academy and appointing Laidley and eight other men as trustees.

On June 30 of that year, the trustees purchased from James and Lucy Holderby the one and one-fourth acre lot containing their log "academy." The price: $40.

That land is now the site of Old Main.

The trustees proceeded to build a new two-story, brick building, 22 feet wide and 50 feet long, containing four rooms. It was completed by February, 1839.

The first full school term was conducted in 1838-39 with Peck serving as principal for a salary of $500.

In 1850, the academy and its financial obligations were accepted by the Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. In 1858, Marshall Academy was renamed Marshall College.

The coming of the Civil War nearly spelled the end of the young college. Lack of financial support, accumulated debts, court action and the war itself forced the school to close its doors in 1861. The property was sold at public auction.

Mrs. Salina Mason bought the land and building for $1,500 for her father, John W. Hite. He was a Confederate sympathizer and could not appear in court in his own behalf. For the next few years, Hite and his family lived in the college building.

During at least part of the war, a small school, probably a subscription school, was maintained at the college--fulfilling a provision in the original deed from James Holderby which specified it was to be used ". . . for the express purpose of an Academy (sic) and for no other use." The building also was used as a hospital during part of the conflict.

In the fall of 1866, the Southern Methodists made an attempt to regain control of the property, but were unable to raise enough money.

Meanwhile, the new state of West Virginia had recognized the need for an institution to train teachers to serve the state's public schools. After many months of wrangling over location, the Legislature on Feb. 27, 1867, voted approval of a bill establishing a "state normal school" to be located at Marshall College.

In order to get the college reopened, the voters of Cabell County approved a property tax levy amounting to $5,000. The state also appropriated funds and on Aug. 1, 1867, the schools' regents purchased the lot and building from Mrs. Mason for $3,600. The regents of the state normal school also authorized additions and repairs amounting to about $3,800.

During that period, the regents purchased an additional 10 acres land from William P. Holderby for $1,000. It turned out that there was a lien against the land and the regents had to ask the Legislature to authorize condemnation in order to obtain a valid title. In September, 1868, they obtained 13 and three-quarters acres at a price fixed at $1,375. This brought the college holdings to a total of 15 acres in order "... that there might be ample room around the buildings, and that the Steward of the College might be able to provide material for his table..."

In 1868, Marshall needed land for farming. A hundred years later, the problem was parking.

The first session of Marshall College as a state normal school began June 15, 1868, and lasted 10 weeks, but financial problems continued to plague the school. The Legislature made no appropriation for salaries and expenses for the year 1879-80 and Principal A.D. Chesterman had to struggle to keep the school open with the money received from tuition fees. These were not adequate to provide a proper teaching staff.

Matters began to improve during the administration of Thomas E. Hodges (1886-1896) as the state gradually increased its financial support.

During Hodges' last year, 1895-96, the school's enrollment exceeded 200 for the first time. The 1896 graduating class of 19 also was a record.

Hodges was followed by Lawrence J. Corbly, who was to serve 19 years--the longest tenure of any Marshall president with the exception of Stewart H. Smith (1946-68).

Corbly's administration marks a major turning point in Marshall's fortunes. Enrollment began a steady climb, from 258 in 1896-97 to 1,021 by 1907.

In 1905, construction was started on the final section of Old Main. This is the familiar "towers" segment facing the main entrance to the campus on Hal Greer Boulevard. With its completion, Old Main consisted of five sections. Reading from the east, these were completed in 1898, 1870, 1899, 1896 and 1907.

The first edition of the campus newspaper, The Parthenon, was published in 1898, although there had been an earlier newspaper with a different name.

Intercollegiate athletics got their start at Marshall during this period, with the first football team being fielded in 1898. The Marshall teams originally were known as the Blue and Black, but the now-familiar Green and White colors had been adopted by 1904.

In May, 1907, the board of regents adopted a plan for the reorganization of the college. Among other things, the plan changed Corbly's title from "principal" to "president" and raised his salary to $2,500 a year.

In 1907, Marshall was still strictly a secondary school. By 1912, the regents had added two years of study to the school's program, equivalent to the freshman and sophomore years in college. In 1914, President Corbly recommended that "... Marshall College should be made a 'college' in fact as well as in official name -- a degree-conferring institution."

But when Corbly retired in 1915, Marshall was still a thriving junior college.

A few years later, however, his hopes were to be realized. In 1920, the State Board of Education approved Marshall's granting of a bachelor's degree in education. Teachers College conferred degrees upon four candidates in June, 1921.

The years ahead were to see steady physical and academic expansion and Marshall became a university in 1961. By the fall of 1987 Marshall had an enrollment exceeding 12,000, a full-time faculty of about 400 and more than 100 part-time instructors.

The small academy has become a major university operating nine colleges and schools: College of Liberal Arts, College of Fine Arts, College of Science, College of Education, College of Business, Graduate School, School of Medicine, Community College, and School of Nursing.

Academic Heraldry

The custom of wearing academic regalia in the colleges and universities of the United States has been continuous since Colonial times. The colors indicating fields of study and degrees conferred are now of standard significance and at Marshall University show in the hoods worn by the Master's and Doctoral degree candidates. Hoods for both Master's and Doctor's are made of black, lined with silk chevrons in the official colors of the university conferring the degree, and trimmed with velvet collars in colors distinctive of the degree. The hoods of the Marshall Faculty represent the many institutions and variety of degrees that comprise a university faculty.
