

Professor Arijit Sen

Associate Professor of Architecture
University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee

Buildings-Landscapes-Cultures
Doctoral Program

2 Oct 2014: South Charleston campus

3 Oct 2014: Huntington campus

ARCHITECTURAL DESIGN URBAN LANDSCAPES PUBLIC HISTORY

Please join us for Dr. Sen's two public talks about his award-winning scholarship on researching and teaching the public history of urban landscapes:

- Oct. 2: Learning From Everyday Places: Teaching American Cultural Landscapes. Graduate College South Charleston, Rm. 319, 12 p.m.
- Oct. 3: Recasting Placemaking: Ways of Seeing and Interpreting our Everyday World. Shawkey Dining Room, 2 p.m.

Dr. Arijit Sen is an architect and vernacular architecture historian who writes, teaches and studies urban cultural landscapes. His research includes studies of South Asian immigrant landscapes in Northern California, New York, and Chicago. He has worked on post disaster reconstruction and community-based design in the Lower Ninth Ward, New Orleans and directed public history and cultural landscapes field schools in Milwaukee. Sen's academic and research background is in architectural history, social, cultural and behavioral analysis of the built environment, and American cultural landscape studies.

Dr. Sen's Graduate Humanities seminar, "Reading American Landscapes," is a Fall 2014 Major Scholar Seminar. For more information, see <http://www.marshall.edu/graduatehumanities/>.

Dr. Sen's visit is sponsored by the Glenwood Center for Scholarship in the Humanities, the Graduate Humanities Program, Department of History, College of Liberal Arts, and the College of Education and Professional Development.

