WHITE COAT Sponsorship

The White Coat is a symbol of professional responsibility, service, patient advocacy, and a commitment to follow the ethical tenets of the Physical Therapy profession. At the Marshall University School of Physical Therapy, students completing the first-year of study are presented with a White Coat as a rite of passage signifying that the student is ready to begin full-time supervised clinical practice in the second-year of the curriculum. In addition to receiving the White Coat, all students sign the American Physical Therapy Association's Code of Ethics.

In 2019 the SOPT started a new tradition that allows alumni, family members, faculty, and local clinicians to sponsor a student. The sponsored student will receive a personalized note in their White Coat pocket from their sponsor.

Your gift of $50 or more will help us carry on the white coat tradition, support physical therapy students to attend state and national events offered by the American Physical Therapy Association and help purchase national board examination review books and materials.

As a sponsor, your name will appear in the White Coat Ceremony program, and you will be listed as a supporter of the Marshall University Foundation. Please make your sponsorship gift no later than April 1, 2022, to ensure that your student receives a special note.

For questions or to learn more about ways, you can support the School of Physical Therapy, contact Tina Powell at tina.powell@marshall.edu or 304-696-5610.
