AT MARSHALL UNIVERSITY

Welcome TO MARSHALL!

In 1837, Marshall University was formed in Huntington, West Virginia, as one of the region's first public higher education institutions. Over the next 186 years, Marshall became a beacon for research, education and innovation by recognizing education as the great equalizer.

Students and community are of utmost importance to us, highlighted by University President Brad D. Smith's departure from Silicon Valley. Now, he charts his alma mater's path forward in the 21st Century. In its new era, Marshall is dedicated to "Marshall for all, Marshall forever."

We believe higher education should be within reach to all and are dedicated to growing student enrollment, not fees. Marshall is already named one of the most affordable universities in America, and our financial aid opportunities keep growing.

Marshall understands education is a lifelong pursuit. Anyone seeking knowledge will always have a home in our Herd, whether their goal is to receive a traditional education, to push forward in their career, or to learn hands-on in their future work environment.

We offer tailored, inclusive experiences for all of our students. We want them to dream bigger, deliver faster and define excellence, as we adapt, innovate and broaden our pathways to the workforce. Ranked in the top tier of the Best National Universities by U.S. News and World Report, we are focused on providing world-class learning opportunities from our professors on a beautiful, award-winning campus.

"As goes Marshall, so goes Huntington," means we understand our duty to serve the community in which we live.

Our R-2 "high research activity" Carnegie classification places us in the top 6% of all U.S. colleges and universities. Students and faculty work side by side to conduct meaningful research that makes a direct impact on Appalachia. Likewise, Marshall's Early Assurance programs help qualified undergraduates start their careers in our schools of medicine, pharmacy and physical therapy, as well as our athletic training program.

PULLMAN PLAZA

Home to over 50,000 residents, Huntington is located along the Ohio River in the Tri-State region of West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky.

Amazon.com and Toyota are just two of several global corporations which call the Huntington area home.

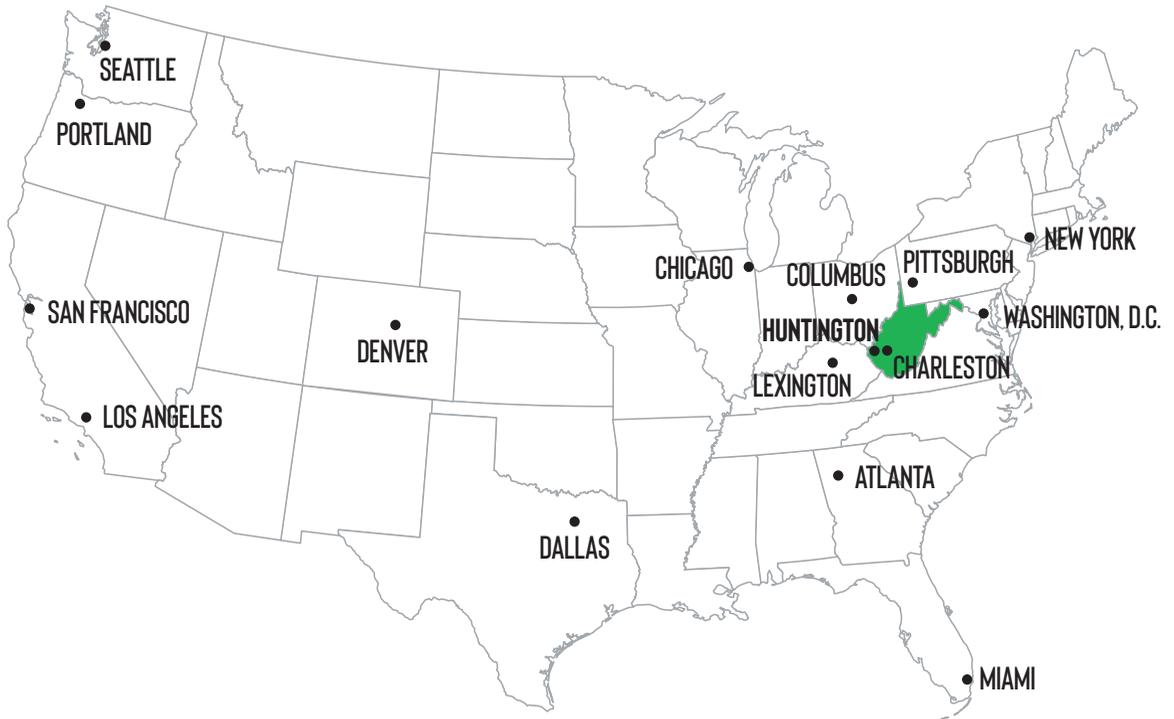

Students have the opportunity to explore the beauty that West Virginia has to offer, as well as travel to many of the most popular destinations in the U.S. Huntington is just over one hour from Washington D.C. by plane.

Huntington's Ritter Park was named among the Best Public Spaces in America by the American Planning Association.

Pullman Plaza, located only minutes from Marshall's campus, is a major downtown center for local shops and restaurants.

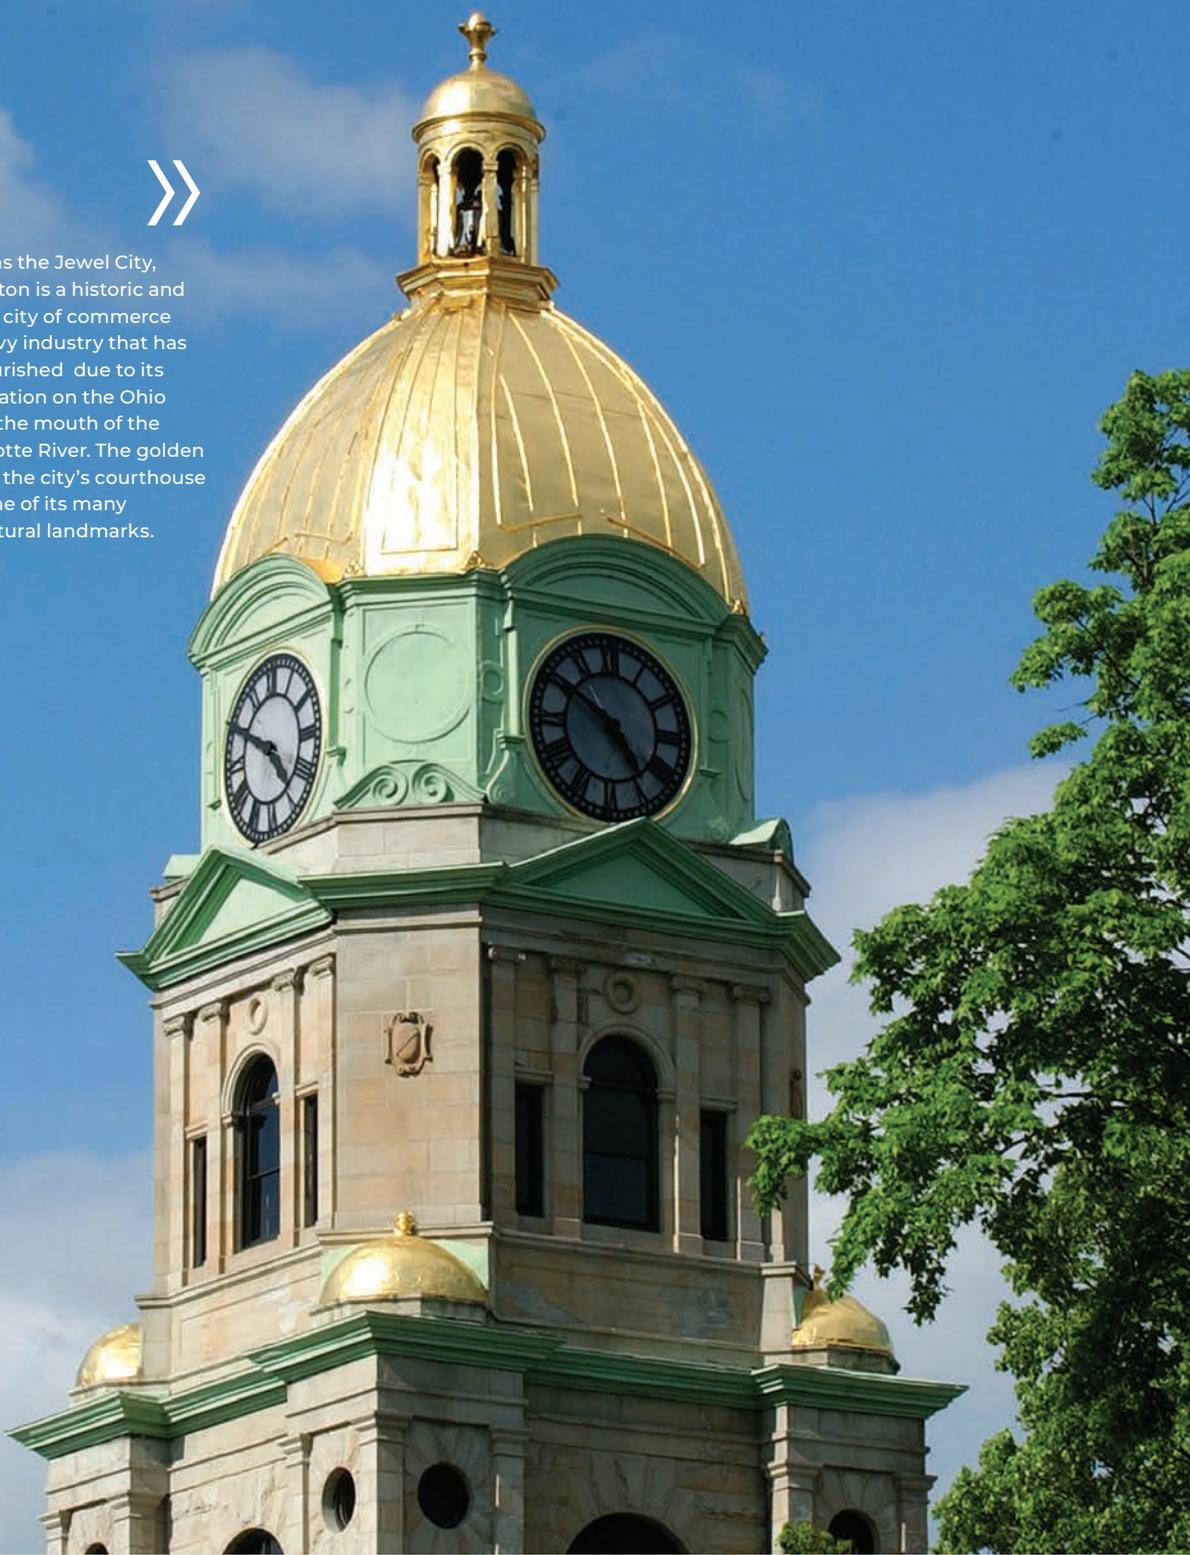

Concerts, music festivals and special events are held at Harris Riverfront Park with excellent views of the Ohio River.

Huntington was voted "America's Best Community" after being named the Grand Prize winner in the America's Best Communities competition, a $10 million community revitalization campaign sponsored by Frontier Communications, DISH Network, CoBank and The Weather Channel.

Known as the Jewel City, Huntington is a historic and bustling city of commerce and heavy industry that has long flourished due to its ideal location on the Ohio River at the mouth of the Guyandotte River. The golden dome of the city's courthouse is just one of its many architectural landmarks.

Research

Marshall University is a premier, regional research university with world-class facilities. We support an active and ambitious research agenda including modern DNA, digital forensics and biotechnology research labs.

The Marshall University Forensic Science Center's forensic DNA laboratories conduct DNA databasing on convicted offenders for the West Virginia State Police Forensic Laboratory. DNA profiles of convicted offenders become part of a state and national searchable database.

R2 DESIGNATION

For the first time in its history, Marshall University was selected as an “R2” research institution in 2019 by the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education.

This designation places Marshall among the top six percent of colleges and universities in the nation, and is the second-highest classification an institution can receive from the organization.

For its latest rankings, Carnegie surveyed more than 4,000 universities and put just 139 in the R2 category, which includes universities that confer at least 20 research / scholarship doctorates annually and spend a minimum $5 million per year on research. With its R2 designation, Marshall joined the likes of universities such as Baylor, Wake Forest and Lehigh.

Marshall received 291 research awards in 2024 totaling $73.3 million in new funding according to the Marshall University Research Corporation.
